01 — OPPORTUNITY OVERVIEW

The All-in-One Sports Super-App

Project Titan is a production-ready, all-in-one sports community platform combining capabilities that currently require 4–6 separate applications. The platform is live, tested, and ready for immediate integration into an acquiring entity's product portfolio.

> No other platform unifies live streaming, short-form content, AI-powered scouting, coaching tools, community groups, and creator monetization into a single product. Project Titan does — and it's already in production.

The platform sits at the intersection of three high-growth markets: sports media ($25B), sports tech ($30B+), and creator economy ($100B+). It captures value across all three with a single codebase and integrated user experience.

03 — STRATEGIC VALUE BY ACQUIRER TYPE

Built for Strategic Integration

Project Titan delivers distinct strategic value depending on the acquirer's existing portfolio and market position.

ACQUIRER	STRATEGIC VALUE
DICK'S / GameChanger	Social network + streaming + AI capabilities they currently lack. Extends GameChanger from a scoring tool into a complete athlete-engagement platform. Captures the audience before, during, and after the game.
Hudl	Social + community + monetization + scouting marketplace. Adds consumer-facing engagement layer to Hudl's coaching-focused platform. Aligns with their acquisition strategy (18+ acquisitions and counting).
TeamSnap	Content creation + streaming + AI coaching. Transforms a logistics app into a full engagement platform. Dramatically increases time-on-platform and per-user revenue potential.
PE Sports Tech Roll-up	Complete platform to anchor a sports tech portfolio. AI infrastructure (TitanAI) serves as a competitive moat and integration layer across portfolio companies.
Media / Social (Meta, X)	Purpose-built sports vertical with built-in monetization, scouting tools, and coaching features. Ready-made community that no horizontal social network can replicate organically.

04 — TECHNOLOGY ASSETS

Modern, Cloud-Native, Serverless

Built on the most current production-grade stack. No legacy code, no technical debt. Every dependency is actively maintained and widely adopted.

React 18 | Vite 6 | Supabase (PostgreSQL) | Stripe (Live) | Anthropic Claude AI | Mux Video | Vercel Edge | Tailwind CSS | Playwright | Radix UI | Framer Motion | TanStack Query

159 automated Playwright tests covering 14 test phases at 98.1% pass rate. Code-split, lazy-loaded, and performance-optimized. Full CI/CD pipeline with automated health monitoring and AI-powered repair agent.

The architecture is fully serverless with Supabase Edge Functions handling backend logic, Row-Level Security (RLS) on all 50 tables, and real-time subscriptions for live features. Zero server management overhead for the acquiring team.

05 — WHAT YOU'RE ACQUIRING

Complete Asset Package

C

Complete Codebase

69 pages, 205 components, production-grade. Fully audited, tested, and deployed. Battle-tested error boundaries, real-time subscriptions, and performance optimizations.

AI

AI Infrastructure (TitanAI)

Content moderation, AI coaching, personalized recommendations, content generation, and scouting narratives. Powered by Anthropic Claude with compliance-first design.

Revenue Infrastructure

Stripe integration live with 6 revenue streams: subscriptions, tips/donations, merchandise, coaching marketplace, premium content, and advertising placements.

U

User Acquisition Pipeline

Andrew Collazo's youth sports network and Texas A&M connections provide warm distribution channels for athlete onboarding and community growth.

M

Competitive Moat

Only all-in-one sports super-app in the market. Competitors address 1–2 verticals; Project Titan covers all of them in a single integrated experience.

Replacement cost: $330K–$620K to rebuild from scratch. This estimate accounts for 12–18 months of full-stack development, AI integration, payment infrastructure, testing framework, and production hardening.

06 — MARKET CONTEXT

M&A Activity Is Accelerating

Sports tech M&A hit $200B across 1,000+ deals in 2025, representing 117% year-over-year growth. The consolidation wave is accelerating as incumbents seek to build comprehensive platforms through acquisition.

SIGNAL	DETAIL
IMG Academy	Acquired both NCSA and SportsRecruits to build a scouting and recruitment pipeline — the same capability Project Titan delivers natively.
GameChanger	Surpassed $100M in revenue. Owned by DICK'S Sporting Goods but limited to scoring — no social, no streaming, no AI.
Hudl	18+ acquisitions to date, systematically acquiring capabilities that Project Titan already includes in a single codebase.
Market Size	Sports tech ($30B+), sports media ($25B), and creator economy ($100B+) are converging. Project Titan sits at the intersection.

07 — INDICATIVE VALUATION

Valuation Framework

Indicative ranges based on comparable sports tech transactions, adjusted for stage, technology completeness, and strategic premium.

STAGE	RANGE	BASIS
Pre-Revenue (Current)	$1M – $3M	Technology asset value, replacement cost ($330K–$620K), IP, competitive positioning
10K Users + Early Revenue	$3M – $10M	Demonstrated product-market fit, user engagement metrics, revenue traction
100K Users + $1M ARR	$10M – $30M	Revenue multiples (10–30x ARR for high-growth sports tech), network effects
Strategic Premium	+30–50%	Applied when acquirer has existing distribution (DICK'S retail, Hudl schools, TeamSnap teams)

For an acquirer with existing distribution (e.g., GameChanger's millions of youth sports families), the strategic premium reflects the ability to immediately deploy Project Titan to an established user base, bypassing the cold-start problem entirely.
